
EVENT CREW - TIMING

- Do you love being part of sporting events and helping participants celebrate the results of months of training?
- Do you enjoy speaking with participants and making sure they have an exceptional experience at every event?
- Are you available on weekends, comfortable working with IT?

If this sounds like you, then read on.

We're Titanium Race Timing, and we're looking for dedicated Event Crew to support events nationwide.

OUR VISION

Titanium Race Timing delivers chip timing services with a difference. Our mission is to provide every event organiser with a bespoke, personal service while engaging directly with participants to ensure they have a fantastic race-day experience.

At Titanium, every participant matters. Whether they're aiming for a PB or simply crossing the finish line, we're here to help them achieve their goals. Our technology must be 100% reliable, and our team plays a crucial role in making that happen.

Personal touches matter to us - from congratulating participants on their achievements to creating a positive and memorable atmosphere at every event.

That's where you come in. We're looking for someone who can assist with setting up our timing equipment, help with basic software tasks, and support the team on race day. You'll stay calm under pressure, follow instructions carefully, and cheer participants on with genuine enthusiasm.

And while you focus on helping create an exceptional experience for participants, we'll make sure you have all the training, tools, and support you need to succeed.

Together, we'll make every event a smooth, memorable experience — for organisers, participants, and for you too.

DO YOU LIKE THE FOLLOWING?

We are a tech company who innovates and we have a similar approach to the delivery of events. So, ask yourself:

- Are you reliable, calm under pressure, and able to stay focused even when things get busy?
- Are you happy carrying out manual, hands-on tasks as part of event setup and breakdown?
- Do you like working with IT tech?
- Are you good with software and open to learning new skills?
- Are you comfortable travelling independently to different event locations?
- Do you enjoy speaking with participants, celebrating their achievements, and contributing to a positive race-day atmosphere?
- Do you enjoy working in outdoor environments?
- Do you enjoy working to deadlines and getting stuck in?
- Are you efficient and reliable?
- Can you commit to regular weekend work, as this is when all our events run?
- Are you happy working early mornings (sometimes as early as 5am) and longer event days when required?
- Do you enjoy live sporting events (Running, Triathlon, Cycling)?

If this sounds like you, then read on.

HERE'S THE SORT OF THING YOU'LL BE DOING AS EVENT CREW (TIMING)

As an Event Crew member, you'll be working alongside the Titanium team to help deliver smooth, memorable events. Your role will involve travelling to race locations (sometimes requiring an overnight stay), setting up timing, audio, and networking equipment, assembling temporary structures, assisting event organisers, managing remote timing points, and supporting the Lead Timer from Titanium.

It may sound like a lot, but don't worry — we'll provide in-depth training and shadow you until you feel confident and ready to take on each task.

Our events take place all across the UK, giving you the chance to explore new places. You might find yourself working in picturesque countryside fields one day or in the heart of a bustling town for a fast-paced, closed-road running event the next. Every day brings a new experience, and every event is a chance to be part of something special.

WHAT YOU'LL BE DOING AT EVENTS

- Setting up hardware – assembling and installing timing equipment, audio systems, networking gear, and power solutions, ensuring everything runs smoothly throughout the event.
- Participant interaction – welcoming and cheering participants across the finish line, handing out medals, and helping create a memorable and positive race-day experience.
- Working in all conditions – embracing early starts, long event days, and the challenges of outdoor environments, from sun to rain, to make every event a success.
- Equipment management – assisting with the safe, timely deployment of all event equipment, and ensuring everything is correctly packed down, accounted for, and loaded back into the van at the end of the event.
- Recording key data – staying calm under pressure while helping capture essential race information, such as precise start times, or assisting with starting athletes at the beginning of triathlons. Your accuracy helps ensure every participant gets the results they've worked hard for.

This is a hands-on role where no two days are the same, perfect for someone who enjoys technology, outdoor work, and being part of a dynamic, fast-moving team.
